Customer Confidence Score:

very or fairly confident

very confident

We want our customers to feel completely confident about the service which we deliver. The dials above highlight the percentage (%) of customers, during the current reporting period and based on the reporting criteria you selected, that were either "very" or "fairly confident" that their next experience of our services would be good. 89% were either "very or fairly confident" with 56% "very confident". 11% said they were "not very" or "not at all confident".

Since the first survey response date and the end date selected for this report and based on the same reporting criteria, the average score for customers saying they were "very confident" is 50%. 81% said they were either "very or fairly confident" with 12% "not very" or "not at all confident".

Customer Confidence Trend:

The chart below tells us how the customer confidence score has changed over the last six months (including part months) working back from today`s date and based on the same reporting criteria. The trend line highlights the percentage of customers that were "very confident" that their next experience of using our services would be good.

In order for the trend chart to appear, there has to be at least two months within the last six months where at least one survey response was submitted.

The Customer Experience:

The chart below shows how customers rated the service for each of the paired statement slider questions in the survey. The chart illustrates the distribution of responses along with the mean or average scores for both the current as well as the previous reporting period. The length of the previous reporting period will match the length of the current reporting period. If the mean score moves to the right, the average scores during the period are improving. If the mean score has moved to the left the average scores have got worse. You can also view the additional comments made by customers with their corresponding score for each individual question displayed alongside.

- Colin Thomas (1)
He was articulate and very professional. He was thorough and caring in his approach and wanted to make sure that the task was completed properly. he has a very nice manner over the 'phone.
- Fatuma Beyan, Dawn Germain (1)
They have both been friendly and helpful.
- Nigel walker (1)
Very understanding and after my bad experience of being left with no follow up in the past with someone else he managed to fix things for me and is dealing with my case now and I'm much happier as I feel he knows what he is doing.

Housing officers are not there for tenants when needed from my experience it's not very good.
Treat every tenant fairly & make sure all landings are kept clear , access areas kept clear , & proper lighting on landings !
